Welcome to Week 5!

We've made it to another exciting week at OSHClub Fairvale! As we move into Week 5, we're thrilled to see how much fun, learning, and growth is happening each day. The kids have been settling into routines, building friendships, and getting creative with our weekly activities. Over this fortnight, we have had a great lineup planned—filled with engaging games, hands-on crafts, and opportunities to explore new interests.

Read on to find out what's coming up, highlights over the past two weeks, and any important reminders for the days ahead. Let's make Week 5 one to remember!

Fortnight Highlights

What an exciting couple of weeks it's been at OSHClub Fairvale!

Earlier this term, the children constructed their very own volcanoes, and this fortnight, they finally got to bring them to life with a fizzy eruption experiment! There was so much excitement as the lava bubbled over, an awesome way to wrap up their creative science project.

On the arty side, the children also got hands-on by making their own clay from scratch, then used it to sculpt their own creations. Once dried, they brought their pieces to life with paint, adding colours and designs that reflected their individual styles.

It's been a fortnight full of creativity, curiosity, and lots of messy fun!
